

Organization Name

Arizona Prevention Research Center (AzPRC)

Level of Expertise Needed

We are looking for an undergraduate student with a background in public health, border health, Latin American Studies, Mexican American Studies, or a related field.

Internship Project Title

Border Health Service Learning Institute (BHSLI): Documentation of Student Reflections

Project Description

This project will electronically document past student reflections from the BHSLI course. The student will type hand-written journals from past BHSLI students. This internship offers hands-on experience in qualitative data collection and management. The student intern may also help develop the qualitative analysis code book and contribute to analysis.

Student Characteristics

Candidates should be detail oriented, have excellent typing skills, and have an interest in gaining experience in qualitative methods and/or service learning instruction. Those with prior experience or knowledge of border health are preferred. We welcome students interested in health disparities and/or those from border communities to apply.

Background of Organization

The AzPRC supports the BHSLI. A graduate level course, BHSLI works directly in our border communities with county health departments in Arizona and Sonora, Mexico to support community prevention education campaigns and youth coalitions. Additionally, students work with non-governmental organizations to support local community gardens, food kitchens, and public health outreach in the community. MEZCOPH is dedicated to involving students in activities. This evaluation will help us learn what students take away from BHSLI and how to improve the course.

Where

Work will take place in Drachman Hall A.

When

Work will be done on weekdays during business hours.

Supervision

Abby Lohr and Ramses Sepulveda will provide supervision to the intern.

Intern Title

Border Health Service Learning Institute Evaluation Assistant

Compensation/Benefits

This is a paid student position. The student could be included on publications if interested.

Application Contact Information

Interested applicants should email Abby Lohr (abbylohr@email.arizona.edu) with a CV or resume and a 1 paragraph explanation of why they're interested in the internship.

Applicants should put "Border Health Service Learning Institute Internship" in the email's subject line.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA
MEL & ENID ZUCKERMAN COLLEGE OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Arizona Prevention
Research Center

Explore the role of public health advocacy in migration, health, and economic development on the US/Mexico border

UNDERGRAD STUDENT JOB:
BORDER HEALTH SERVICE
LEARNING INSTITUTE
EVALUATION ASSISTANT

MAY - SEPT 2019

Primary duties: type hand-written reflection journals from past Border Health Service Learning Institute students.

This position offers hands-on experience in qualitative data collection and management. The student worker may also help develop the qualitative analysis code book and contribute to analysis.

Interested applicants should email Abby Lohr (abbylohr@email.arizona.edu) with a CV or resume and a 1 paragraph explanation of why they're interested in the internship. Applicants should put "Border Health Service Learning Institute Internship" in the email's subject line.